SOCIALISM IN GERMANY DIES;
REICHSTAG SHUT

Former Crown
Prince in Berlin.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

SERLIN, March 13.—Germany's first democratic reichstag, with its preponderance of Socialist members who no longer represent the real spirit of the electorate, has run its course. Shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon it was declared officially dead by Chancellor Marx, who read the order of dissolution to the full membership.

There were few mourners although the galleries were full. The Socialists, who bitterly opposed the dissolution, were the only ones to weep. For the other parties dissolution was welcome, for all hope to gather the seats and influence which the Socialists are doomed to lose when the elections are held in the middle of May.

Interview with Marx.

Herr Marx, in an interview after the dissolution, said to THE TRIBUNE:

"It was with a heart full of anxiety that the government decided to dissolve the reichstag. We realize our responsibility fully, but we believe that it is absolutely necessary to have a reichstag that is able to reach decisions and to take action. The composition of the party which has just been removed from power was such that it was impossible to see a majority for the settlement of any important question."

The discussion of the experts is now finished. While their discussion will not be so favorable as we had hoped, quiet must be maintained under all conditions. We cannot allow disquieting discussions."

More Men at Work.

Economic conditions have greatly improved in the last few weeks. Herr Marx asserted, indicating that the present reichstag, through its failure to pass proper taxation measures, might throw industry back to where it was several months ago. Only 120,000 workers are on part time today, where there were 1,300,000 on Jan. 1. The number of absolutely jobless also has been greatly diminished.

The law establishing a new gold credit bank, which is destined to maintain a stable currency in Germany, was passed after long discussion. This was one of the last acts of the now defunct parliament. The proposals of Dr. Schacht, president of the reichsbank, were accepted without amendment.

This was the fourth time that any German reichstag has been dissolved. It was broken up in 1907 following former Kaiser William's interview with the London Daily Telegraph.

The reichstag had one more year of life under ordinary circumstances, as it was elected early in 1920.

Kronprinz on Job.

Former Crown Prince Frederick William made his first public appearance in Berlin today when he drove through Unter den Linden in a private motor car. The prince who is now incognito, was recognized by few in the midday throng along Berlin's most crowded thoroughfare. His appearance did not create a stir.

The former crown prince held conferences with several prominent men during his short visit. He had a long talk with Herr Escherich, organizer of the "home guards," a military organization which is supposed to be entirely nonpolitical in character.

While there is no proof that he has seen Herr Stresemann there is strong reason to believe that the former heir to the German throne was in conference with the foreign minister. He has already made several trips to Potsdam for talks with Herr Stresemann.

Berlin Keep Gold.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
PARIS, March 13.—Germany refuses to transfer the empire's gold reserve outside of the reich frontier and to deposit it in a gold bank in Holland.

The experts' committee, acquiescing in the German rejection of this proposal, has consented to permit the reich government to maintain the gold reserve in Berlin, but deposit instead the capital subscribed by foreign countries in the new bank at Amsterdam.

President of the Reichsbank Schacht appeared before the experts today and gave the final veto to transporting Germany's gold—about 450,000,000 marks ($112,500,000)—across the frontier. He pointed out the stormy day, it would be dangerous throughout the country, and the experts agreed.

This action marked a decided capitulation of the French and leaves Germany fully empowered to handle the

BLAST SHAKES HIS SHOP; FIVE FIRE UPON HIM

Gang Defies Crowe by Outrages.

Gangsters yesterday marked "Herschel" Miller, bootlegger and underworld chieftain, for slaughter.

Twice during the day he was made a target.

In the afternoon he was fired upon by five men as he drove his auto along Racine avenue near North Clark street. Only a quick lunge to the bottom of the car saved his life, five shots passing directly across the driver's seat.

At midnight came the second attack. A bomb was exploded in Miller's place of business—the Acme Cleaning and Dyeing company at 2833-36 North Clark street. Fixtures in the place were shattered and garments strewn about and torn. The loss was estimated at several thousand dollars.

At 1:15 a. m. another bomb exploded in front of the Acme Cleaning and Dyeing company at 2833-36 North Clark street. Fixtures in the place were shattered and garments strewn about and torn. The loss was estimated at several thousand dollars.

acts of the attorney general only were made and competent testimony taken that was not fully and finally disposed of in a week or ten days at the farthest. Anything regarding the investigation must be given out by my attorney, as I am occupied constantly with my duties here."

The beginning of today's session was again marred by sharp clashes between Senator Wheeler (Dem., Mont.) and Paul Howland, of counsel for Daugherty.

Senator Ashurst (Dem., Ill.) and Senator Moses (Rep., N. H.) participated at times. Senator Wheeler bluntly informed Howland that he "could not get away with the kind of bulldogging tactics which he used so successfully in the impeachment proceedings before the house judiciary committee," more than a year ago.

Senator Ashurst said Howland ought to apologize to Wheeler for the remarks he made about him yesterday. Howland wanted authority to subpoena some witnesses in Daugherty's behalf, but Wheeler informed him he would have to furnish some outline of the kind of trial he had in mind.

Howland's speech died down after a while, and the hearing went on peacefully. Wheeler and Howland are understood to have buried the hatchet later.

Takes Spotlight from Dene.

The Daugherty investigation has crowded the Teapot Dome inquiry out of the spotlight. The hearing room was packed to the last inch of standing room and a large crowd outside in the corridor clamped for admission.

Miss Stinson was calmer and more possessed on the witness stand today. She gave the committee several good laughs with witty bits of testimony, particularly when she told how Jess Smith shared his liquor with her.

As a result of her testimony, subpoenas have gone out to Mal Daugherty, president of the Midland National bank of Washington Court House, a brother of the attorney general; Edmund H. Moore of Cleveland, prominent Democratic politician in Ohio; John G. Price, former attorney general of Ohio; James W. Holcomb, Cleveland land lawyer; Harry T. Davis, Cleveland broker; Sam L. Nelson, Cleveland banker; and William R. H. Hayes, Columbus representative of Underleider.

Mal Daugherty arrived in Washington today and took a seat in the hearing room facing Miss Stinson to follow her testimony closely. The committee has ordered him to produce his bankers' books for several years and it is probable that accountants will be sent to Washington Court House to examine them.

MISS STINSON TESTIFIES

Miss Stinson, resuming her testimony, said she never had been at the mysterious green house in K street. She said she never had been in Washington before except one day many years ago before she was married. The examination proceeded:

SENATOR WHEELER: What, if anything, do you know with reference to the K street residence?

MISS STINSON: I would rather not answer that. I consider it purely personal.

SENATOR JONES: Of Washington. Had it anything to do with the attorney general?

MISS STINSON: It is purely personal. I do not think it would concern me alone, at least, under the circumstances.

SENATOR WHEELER: Well, I will ask you this: You know that Mr. Smith and the attorney general met at the K street house on a number of occasions?

MISS STINSON: I don't mind saying that, or so I was told by Mr. Smith.

Hold Conferences at Home.

SENATOR ASHURST: What did Mr. Smith ever tell you, if anything, concerning Mr. Daugherty's visits to that house?

MISS STINSON: That they had conferences in this house. He referred to different senators, and said they had conferences with important people, on important matters, this house.

SENATOR ASHURST: Did Mr. Smith ever tell you what purpose he met Mr. Daugherty there?

MISS STINSON: Why, because they could meet there privately, and they could meet people without having audiences, without being disturbed by other people I mean, not audiences necessarily, that would not express it very well, but so they would not be disturbed.

SENATOR ASHURST: Did Mr. Smith ever tell you that persons soliciting appointments from the department of justice met Mr. Daugherty there?

MISS STINSON: —O, yes.

Solicited for Many Things.

SENATOR MOSES: —Or other departments?

MISS STINSON: —Well, you see they were sought after so much for different things. You asked me to specify about the department of justice and I said yes, but they mentioned things all the way through, about being solicited for all things.

SENATOR MOSES: —Did he tell you the people who came soliciting such appointments received such appointments?

MISS STINSON: —No, that would be afterwards, and I would not know.

The witness told of seeing Col. James G. Darden at the shack of Daugherty and Smith, fifteen miles from Washington Court House. Daugherty and Smith, he said, dropped in one evening because he did not measure up.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Mr. Smith was one of Mr. Daugherty's partners, was he not?

MISS STINSON: —In crime.

SENATOR WHEELER: —No; in crime. He was one of the partners of Mr. Daugherty in these different deals, but he paid off?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, sir.

SENATOR JONES: —Do you know of any funds coming from Mr. Daugherty?

MISS STINSON: —I doubt very much if they came from Mr. Daugherty.

SENATOR JONES: —By reason of his illness?

MISS STINSON: —I could not imagine that it came any other way.

SENATOR JONES: —Well, I mean to ask, do you know?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, I know from Mr. Smith.

SENATOR ASHURST: —Are you able at this moment, after refreshing your memory, to say whether or not Mr. Smith ever told you of any transactions or deals between Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Darden?

MISS STINSON: —I am trying to tell you just as I remember now. Jess Smith put in $2,400, gave Col. Darden $2,400. I said, "Did Harry Daugherty give the same amount?" He says, "Yes." I said, "I imagine he gave more." He said, "If he did I don't know it." But they were supposed to put in the same amount of money. I had.

I had forgotten that, but I do think they had a deal on an oil proposition out west. That was what Col. Darden was interested in, I remember. It now comes to me.

SENATOR JONES: —Did that occur after the inauguration?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, sir. Col. Darden had for years been trying to get through some leases some way through Washington—this is an old story to me prior to this administration. Jess said, "I think he is a dreamer, but we are taking a chance. He has been playing around Washington for years, trying to get through some leases. Now if this is not a pipe dream we have put this much money in it. It will probably make us a lot of money. I do not see where he gets all his money. He just came from Chicago. He bought a new car, an expensive car. He seems to have worlds of money to spend."

Senators Wheeler said Darden lives in Maryland, but subsequent servers have not been able to locate him.

SENATOR MOSES: —Did you prediction about the investment prove true?

MISS STINSON: —Yes. I don't know—they dropped Mr. Darden.

SENATOR JONES: —They dropped their money too, did they not?

MISS STINSON: —I don't know. I never asked her what Jess Smith shared his liquor with her.

As a result of her testimony, subpoenas have gone out to Mal Daugherty, president of the Midland National bank of Washington Court House, a brother of the attorney general; Edmund H. Moore of Cleveland, prominent Democratic politician in Ohio; John G. Price, former attorney general of Ohio; James W. Holcomb, Cleveland land lawyer; Harry T. Davis, Cleveland broker; Sam L. Nelson, Cleveland banker; and William R. H. Hayes, Columbus representative of Underleider.

Mal Daugherty arrived in Washington today and took a seat in the hearing room facing Miss Stinson to follow her testimony closely. The committee has ordered him to produce his bankers' books for several years and it is probable that accountants will be sent to Washington Court House to examine them.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Do you know whether or not they were shown in other states over the country?

She Saw Pictures.

MISS STINSON: —I saw the pictures in New Jersey with Mr. Smith; that was the deal, as you understand it, between Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Smith and others with reference to those items?

MISS STINSON: —The proposition was—the argument was that transportation of these items to different states was contested by the authorities. Violation of law some way from state to state. And if these films could be transported from one state with certain restrictions, there were to receive $100,000. Whether that was ever given to Jess Smith is not known. I think that was the conversation that took place that you heard there?

MISS STINSON: —Well, it was a discussion of how they were going to get a parole for him from the department of justice.

SENATOR WHEELER: —What, if anything, was said with reference to fix it with Daugherty?

MISS STINSON: —Well, it was Mr. Daugherty that was the one to get the parole or see that it was given to the person or see that it was gotten.

SENATOR WHEELER: —What, if anything was said by Mr. Weber to Jess Smith with reference to Mr. Smith fixing it with Daugherty?

MISS STINSON: —Mr. Weber said to Mr. Smith, "With reference to this matter we have been talking about, how is it getting along?" And Mr. Smith said, "I don't know." Later I said, "What is it he wants?" He said, "He wants his brother-in-law out of jail." In the theater afterward Mr. Weber said, "When is it going to be arranged to get this man out of jail?" And then Jess Smith, I said, "I am working on that now." He said, "You know I am very anxious to have it consummated." Or about those words.

Sold It Was Cheap.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Was there anything said to you about any money transaction in connection with it?

MISS STINSON: —He said, referring to him, he wants a lot, and he is awful cheap. "But," he said, "I think we are going to do something for him."

SENATOR JONES: —Did he say at any rate he would have to pay something?

MISS STINSON: —Why, he said it was awful cheap and wanted something for nothing and he said, "I don't know whether we are going to do something for him."

SENATOR JONES: —Did he say at any rate he would have to pay something?

SENATOR WHEELER: —Do you know whether a parole was granted in this case?

MISS STINSON: —No. At this point she digressed and mentioned Mal Daugherty, brother of the attorney general.

MET MAL DAUGHERTY

SENATOR WHEELER: —Did Mr. Smith ever tell you, if anything, concerning Mr. Daugherty's visits to that house?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, sir.

SENATOR JONES: —Now what had Mr. Smith himself to do with it?

SENATOR WHEELER: —Well, he was the one that was—what would you call it—he was the one that was making the deal for them.

SENATOR JONES: —In making an agreement under which Mr. Daugherty was not to prosecute for the violation of the law?

MISS STINSON: —That was the understanding.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Did Mr. Smith ever tell you, if anything, concerning Mr. Daugherty's visits to that house?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, sir.

SENATOR WHEELER: —This appointment he asked me if I were going to be at home Sunday. I have a little litigation with Mr. Daugherty over the William R. A. Hays account No. 3. He said he was pretty satisfied in his own mind that that was about the right time. Mr. Daugherty has been very nice to me, and yet when we got into the Probate court his lawyer fights it like a murder trial. Now, I told him long before this investigation started it would be unfortunate. I don't want anything but what is coming to me—I am not trying to browbeat any one—it could get that. I knew it before the public did. Jess Smith snuffed his life out thinking he could stop it. He didn't have long to live anyhow.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Now do you know what Mr. Smith's expenses were here in Washington, what his living cost him?

MISS STINSON: —A lot. Very heavy.

He said that it was a fight of expenses they had. He also said time and again that he paid half of the living expenses of the household. I never thought that was quite fair, and I explained myself and he said, "O, that's all right."

SENATOR ASHURST: —What house did he tell you?

MISS STINSON: —The household of Daugherty and Jess Smith.

SENATOR JONES: —He never explained to you why he paid half of it?

MISS STINSON: —They were interested in things jointly, and he felt that he was able to pay his part through the remunerations he would get. He felt that he could afford it.

SENATOR WHEELER: —What did he ever tell you that his part of the expense, or his living cost here amounted to?

MISS STINSON: —It cost them considerably over $50,000 a year.

SENATOR WHEELER: —You took a trip one time, did you not, to South America?

MISS STINSON: —Panama. Started to South America, but I changed my mind.

SENATOR WHEELER: —And how did you go?

MISS STINSON: —My house companion, Mrs. Oldham, and I went as guests of the United Fruit company. We were complimented through Mr. Graybow of Boston, as guests of the United Fruit company.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Through whose influence? Was it through Jess Smith?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, sir.

SENATOR WHEELER: —And how were you entertained upon that trip?

MISS STINSON: —Royally.

WERER WANTED PARDON

SENATOR WHEELER: —You were in New York shortly after the senatorial prairie fire?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, sir.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Did you meet Joe Weber there?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, sir.

SENATOR WHEELER: —How often did you and Mr. Smith see him there in New York together?

MISS STINSON: —O, two or three times.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Did you ever hear a conversation between Mr. Weber and Mr. Smith with reference to a pardon?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, sir.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Wife in Prison.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Just tell me what you do about it.

MISS STINSON: —I could not give you the date of that.

SENATOR JONES: —Did he tell you where he got it?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, sir.

SENATOR WHEELER: —What is the name of the wife?

MISS STINSON: —It is Harry.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Is she in prison?

MISS STINSON: —Yes, sir.

SENATOR WHEELER: —Is she in prison?

MISS STIN

GATHERING A LOAD OF PICKETS

Detectives led by Sgt. Patrick Collins of the state's attorney's office arrest garment workers pickets at Market street and Jackson boulevard. Slugging was resumed in the Market street area yesterday despite a court order forbidding violence.

their properties to be taken over by the receiver.

The bill recites that former President Harding was without authority to transfer the lands, but did so on "false representations" from Fall, so on the interest of the United States but to the advantage, profit, and benefit of the Mammoth Oil company and in particular Harry F. Sinclair."

Fall, the bill charges, knew at the time that the whole transaction was illegal.

Negotiations in Secret

Evidence of the alleged conspiracy, the government's bill charges, found in the fact that the agreement was made secret by private negotiation "without advance knowledge of competitive bidding," and that prospective bidders were discouraged from bidding and denied the opportunity by Fall.

The Texas company, the Pioneer Oil company, Edward L. Doheny, and Leo A. Stack, the bill says, were among those so excluded.

At the same time, it is recited, Fall agreed with John C. Shaffer, the newspaper publisher, to see that Sinclair set apart certain of the leased lands for the benefit of the said Shaffer.

Mr. Roberts and Mr. Pomerene left right for Los Angeles, where they file suits for annulment of the Doghouse lease on Monday.

WHAT U. S. ASKED

In the suit filed by Messrs. Pomerene and Roberts the District court was asked to do three specific things:

1. To issue a temporary injunction stopping oil production.

2. Appoint a receiver to take charge of the properties.

3. Enter a final decree canceling the leases and contracts, returning the properties to the government, and enjoining an accounting.

Former Secretary Fall was charged with making "false representations" to the late President Harding, which resulted in the transfer of the lands from the navy to the interior department.

The government denies that there was any warrant of law for leasing the lands at all.

Fall Charged in Conspiracy.

The bill further alleges that Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, the latter acting for the Mammoth Oil company, "did combine, conspire, and confederate to defraud the United States."

The result of these alleged acts, the government's bill recites, was to lease the Teapot Dome to the Mammoth Oil company "an inadequate, improper, and fraudulent consideration."

Former Secretary Denby in connection with the transaction is described as the government's "chief witness" and his signature is characterized as merely a collusive attempt to evidence the complicity by him in its terms."

Declaring that it was a great relief to have the Teapot Dome tangle transferred to a "court of justice," Mr. Sinclair expressed approval of the receivers and denied any conspiracy in obtaining the lease which he declares is "valid and binding."

ROOSEVELT UNDER FIRE

Washington, D. C., March 13.—Theodore Roosevelt, acting secretary of the navy, came under fire again today before the oil committee.

His order sending a detachment of marines to Teapot Dome to clear it of "trespassers" in 1922, four months after the reserve had been leased to Harry F. Sinclair, was characterized by Senator Walsh [Dem., Mont.] as an "outrageous use of military power."

Secretary Roosevelt also was asked about the circumstances under which he requested Sinclair to give employment to his brother, Archie, whose startling story to the oil committee led to the most sensational disclosures of the long investigation. He explained that when Archie returned from the war in 1919 he was seeking a place, and that he either saw or telephoned Sinclair asking that he employ Archie.

Received $10,000 a Year.

"What was his salary?" asked Senator Fall [Dem., Wash.]

"Ten thousand dollars a year at the time," said Secretary Roosevelt. "I think that was increased to $15,000 later on."

Secretary Roosevelt told the committee that his order for the marines to clear Teapot Dome had been issued at the request of Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior, under what he understood was an agreement between Fall and President Harding.

This brought from Senator Walsh the charge that Fall and Sinclair wanted the marines used because if they had been sent to inspect the validity of the Sinclair-Fall lease, would come under review by a court, and they did not want that to happen.

"The thing in my mind then was the protection of naval property," Secretary Roosevelt said.

Senator Walsh declared the property had passed out of the possession of the navy department to Sinclair, and that in any event resort should have been had to the courts, from which he said speedy relief could have been had.

The ejection of "trespassers" occupied the whole time of today's public session of the committee, which heard in addition to Secretary Roosevelt, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commanding officer of the marine corps. Tomorrow the investigators will delve into reports on the conduct of both of the brokerage firms made to determine whether government officials had dealings in Sinclair oil stocks at about the time of the Teapot Dome lease.

A new batch of subpoenas was issued today, summoning to Washington several men who were identified with the forces of candidates for the Republican nomination for president at Chicago in 1920. They will be questioned about rumors of attempted "oil deals" during the convention.

Those summoned are Randolph H. Nickels of Cincinnati, Republican national committeeman from Ohio; Harry McKenzie, a former newspaper man, now connected with President Coolidge's Chicago campaign headquarters; Tim Gilmore, deputy secretary of the Illinois State Fair; and Norman J. Gould of Columbus, O., and Norman J. Gould of New York, formerly identified with the campaign organization of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood.

Strike Pickets Arrested.

Twelve strike pickets were arrested in Evanston on orders of Chief of Police Leggett. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

Strikes of nonunion workers was reported yesterday in the local strike zone along South Market street. Before Judge Denis E. Sullivan three strikers were placed on probation.

GARMENT FIRMS BALK AT PARLEY WITH STRIKERS

Refuse to Attend Session at the City Hall.

Chicago dress manufacturers, represented by Arthur Weiss, refused yesterday to meet officials of the Ladies' Garment Workers' union at a conference arranged by Miss Mary Mcdowell, commissioner of the city's welfare department. Other parties to the conference were delegations from Hull House, the Northwestern and Chicago universities, and representatives of various women's and civic organizations. They waited in vain for representatives of the manufacturers.

Says Sanitation Is Good.

Earlier in the day Arthur Weiss informed the Rev. Father Frederick Seldenburg, who was appointed chairman of the committee to investigate the strike conditions, that the large dress manufacturers operated their shops above the sanitary standard demanded by the union. He said the employers he represented would not make the officials of the garment workers' union. Later the priest admitted he had visited the shops of the large employers and found the shops sanitary.

Smaller Firms Willing.

The small dress manufacturers have signified their willingness to cooperate with the citizens' committee to arrange a truce between the unions and employers," asserted Miss McDowell. "They feel, however, that the union demands were made for the large employers, who refuse to deal with the heads of the union. We have been able to small employers who have come into an association and deal with the union."

Among those attending the conference were Walter Dill Scott, president of the Northwestern university; Ann Guthrie, secretary of the Y. W. C. A.; the Rev. Father Seldenburg, Loyola university; Mrs. Abi Simond, president of the Jewish Women's club; Aid Officer Nelson Dean Holloman of Northwestern university; Clarence S. Darrow, Walter Max, president of the Chicago Association of Churches; Prof. A. E. Todd, vice president of the Civic club of Chicago; Miss Ellen Starr, Hull house; William Cunneen and Thomas Allison.

NEW BONUS BILL GOES TO HOUSE; VOTE NEXT WEEK

Provides Insurance and Cash Payment.

[By STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Washington, D. C., March 13. [Special.]—Favorable report was made today by the committee on ways and means on the soldier bonus bill. At the same time plans were perfected to call the bill up for passage in the house on Monday. Chairman Green reported that three committee members voted against it. Representative Mills [Rep., N. Y.] favored it; Rep. Frank J. Tilson [Rep., Conn.] and Tamm [Rep., Ill.] opposed it. It is estimated that the bill will cost the government $2,119,000,000.

In the bill the house committee re-adopted in substance the provisions of the bill passed in the last congress relating to the basis of adjusted compensation. This is predicated on $1 a day for each hour served, $1.25 a day for foreign service, with maximum payment for home service of $500, and for foreign service a maximum of $125. These payments are to be made in the form of endowment insurance policies.

Small Per Cent Added to Pay.

Chairman Green stated that in estimating the basis for the adjusted service certificates 25 per cent is to be added to the adjusted service pay. The face of the certificate will be the amount that can be purchased under the American endowment tables on a basis of 4 per cent interest compounded annually with the adjusted service pay, plus 25 per cent additional.

The loan feature is retained in the bill, which provides that any veteran, two years after the date of his certificate, may borrow 90 per cent of its loan value in the year in which the loan is made.

Second Per Cent Added to Pay.

Chairman Green stated that in estimating the basis for the adjusted service certificates 25 per cent is to be added to the adjusted service pay. ## DAUGHERTY GIVES BRIBERY CHARGES TO GRAND JURY

House Investigators Put Out at His Hurry.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—[Special.]—Acting on the resolution of the house of representatives adopted Tuesday, urging him to hasten investigation into charges made before the Chicago grand jury that two members of congress accepted money improperly, Attorney General Daugherty today rushed the case before a grand jury of the District of Columbia.

The fact that the house yesterday decided also to investigate the charges affecting two of its members on its own account and appointed a special committee for the purpose, did not deter the attorney general in ordering an immediate grand jury proceeding.

Mortimer First Witness.

The first witness called before the local grand jury was Elias H. Mortimer, who gave testimony before the Chicago grand jury against former Director Charles R. Forbes of the veterans bureau and was the principal witness in the ultimate investigation of the veterans bureau.

Assistant Attorneys General Seymour, and Mrs. Whitebrandt and Special Agents J. W. H. Crim and Arnold Davis, who conducted proceedings before the Chicago grand jury, were in charge of the presentation of evidence. Mrs. Whitebrandt is in charge of prohibition prosecutions in the department of justice, and her appearance before the grand jury was due to the fact that evidence given by Chicago connected accused members of congress with irregularities in liquor withdrawals.

Speedy Action Sought.
It was apparent outside the grand jury room that the department of justice officials were seeking rapid action on the evidence being presented and in one authoritative quarter the statement was made that all testimony, documents and statements would be before the jury by tomorrow night.

The attorney general's prompt compliance with the action of the house Tuesday caused considerable surprise at the Capitol in view of the fact that the special committee appointed Wednesday to conduct an inquiry into the allegations was getting ready to proceed when news of the grand jury proceedings became known.

House Committee Plugged.
Early this morning Representative Burton [Rep., Ohio], chairman of the special committee appointed to act for the house, called his associates in session to map out a plan of procedure. The committee was quickly apprised of the move made by the attorney general.

It had been hoped that before proceeding in the case against the accused, congressmen the attorney general would seek conference with the special committee of the house. This afternoon, General Daugherty failed to do so and committee members were inclined to resent it, despite the fact that the house had urged the attorney general to proceed as he is doing regardless of his later action in naming a special committee.

Following the session of the special house committee, Chairman Burton adjourned and the work of investigation would begin Saturday. Most of the witnesses who appear will be examined publicly.

Municipal Clerks Ask
Increase in Salaries
A campaign for an increase in pay has been started by the Municipal Clerks' Ex-Servicemen's association. Their figures show the average pay of the city employes is less than that of state employees. The association yesterday presented these facts, together with a petition for an increase, to a group of aldermen who are also war veterans and honorary members of the organization.

MICHIGAN GIVES DENBY A WARM WELCOME HOME

Detroit, Mich., March 13.—"Ned Denby—one time gunner's mate on the U. S. S. Yosemite, state legislator, congressman, three years secretary of the navy, a veteran of two wars and now a major in the marine reserve force—"Ned" Denby came home today.

Mr. Denby read his prepared address, departing in no important detail from it.

"I Have Done No Wrong."

"I come home," he said, "neither asking the forgiveness nor bowing with shame, but proudly to proclaim to you that I have done no wrong nor ought that merits rebuke from you, my friends, nor from them, my ruthless enemies. If it be wrong to try to save that which I was charged to guard, then I have done wrong, not otherwise. If it be wrong to try to protect the honor of the American people and the external credit of our piece this country is in position for defense, such as it has not had before, then, I have done wrong, not otherwise."

"I believe what I did was just and lawful and sound, and for the best interests of the United States. I think the bravest thing I have ever done was to resign high office while still representatives in Saghalien. E. W. Sinclair, president of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, said today that such extensions would not affect the validity of the Sinclair company contract with Soviet Russia.

"At the diplomatic conference in Moscow," he said, "Japanese representatives gave formal assurance that the military occupation of Russian Saghalien was only a temporary measure."

The Japanese press commented on the possibilities of a grave issue between America and Japan over the values of fields.

Northern Saghalien nominally is Russian territory, but now is under Japanese military occupation. Powerful Japanese interests are planning oil exploitation there under the auspices of the Japanese navy.

The Sinclair Oil company holds a concession granted by the soviet regime to prospect for petroleum on Saghalien island, but the Japanese have refused to recognize any agreement between Russia and any other country regarding these concessions so long as the northern portion of the island is occupied by the Japanese. The Japanese have spent large sums investigating the Saghalien fields.

Sinclair Not Worried.

New York, March 13.—Commenting on the difficulties of the company's which thousands reiterated to Mr. Denby their faith quenched in a banquet at his home at which representatives of virtually every walk of life and of all political parties were present.

It was "more like a launching than a going into dry dock," one speaker said, setting the enthusiasm that created frequent mention of the rumored future politics activity by the former secretary.

Mr. Denby read his prepared address, departing in no important detail from it.

Prominent Men Present.

Seated at the speaker's table among others were: Charles B. Warren, ambassador to Mexico; Maj. A. D. Alcorn, commander of Spanish-American War Veterans; Charles Deland, secretary of state; Acting Mayor Joseph A. Martin; Fielding H. Yost, and a score of prominent business and professional men.

An even dozen men who served with Mr. Denby on the U. S. S. Yosemite were present.

Bandits Take Woman's Fur Coat, Jewels, Money

Two men in an automobile accosted Mrs. Harry Wagner a short distance from her home at 499 North Albion avenue last night and took a $400 fur coat, rings valued at $600, and $15 in cash. She was unable to describe them to the police, as the robbers ordered her to keep her back towards them,

Maywood Ex-Chief Seems to Have Lothario—d.

The avenue of Maywood were left to their backs last Monday by Louis H. Sweeney, superintendent of streets and roads. The chief of the village's police department. He reported the village precipitately, and he explained he had gone to Florida for his health.

The explanation attained new significance yesterday when it became known that Maywood, whose climate Sweeney seemed to agree with him, seemingly had suddenly become unhealthy for him. He left, it was reported, because a motorcycle policeman threatened to kill him for alleged misconduct with the former's wife.

"Traveler or Corpse."

Sweeney was given his choice of moving town in a hurry or becoming a corpse," was the report in Maywood last night after more than a week of Sweeney's departure was preceded by a conference in the office of A. Lee, president of the village. The aggrieved policeman sought Edward H. Dudley. Sweeney's successor as chief of police, and told of returning home unexpectedly one day and finding Sweeney with his wife. A few minutes later the superintendent of streets and the motorcycle policeman were facing each other in Mr. Lee's chambers. The charges were reported.

"What are you going to do about it?" Mr. Lee demanded. Sweeney shrugged his shoulders, made a non-committal reply, and shortly afterward left the room. It is said.

Decides to Travel.

Sweeney's departure for Florida, his wife and family have been spending the winter, followed in short order.

"It is true that the meeting in my office was rather stormy and that a fight was passed that Sweeney had better get out," Mr. Lee admitted yesterday. "It is also true that he left even within a few hours of the conference. In view of his sudden departure it would seem that the story about his alleged misconduct is true."

His Jobs Now Pay More.

Before his resignation from the police department last month Sweeney was holding the jobs of chief of streets and superintendent. For this he received $2,000 a year. This sum was advanced to $2,500 when he quit as police chief.

Alex Ingels of 1884 South 4th avenue, Maywood, has been appointed temporary superintendent of streets since Sweeney's exit.

Ruffles and flourishes, resounding through the gold room of the Congress hotel at 11 o'clock tomorrow night, will usher in the national defense pageant which is to be the feature of the Army and Navy club's fourth annual military ball.

The pageant is to end about midnight with the trooping of the colors in the center of the ballroom. Maj. F. L. Bean will be in charge of the spectacle.

The social climax of Chicago's military life, is to open with a grand march at 9 o'clock.

A midnight supper in the Elizabethan hall, which marks each year the social climax of Chicago's military life, is to follow with the pomp and display of the gold room. Not until 3 a.m., said Capt. Louis Losser, chairman of the general committee, will the Army and Navy club's annual ball have become part of Chicago's social history.

BOY AFRAID OF DARK HELD ON MURDER CHARGE*His Mother Puzzled; Victim Dies.

Joseph Kosow, shot during a hold-up by two boys, who raided his delicatessen store at 2611 Irvington street, died last night in the county hospital.

The day before he identified Willard James Kennedy, 15, as the youth who shot him, and Earl Woodward, 16, as the other robber.

Use Other Robbery as Alibi.

The boys protested that they were "stickin' up" a restaurant at 5109 Sheridan road at that time, but now they are facing, in addition to a dozen or so confessed robberies and holdups, charges of murder.

"He couldn't have shot him! He couldn't have!" Mrs. Kennedy said over and over. "Why, when we left at 12:30 two years ago—he was afraid to go to bed in the dark! And he was always so quiet at home, never a bad boy at all—only lately he wouldn't stay in at nights. There must be a gang, for he wouldn't know how to do such things."

"He couldn't have shot him! He couldn't have!" Mrs. Woodward, who's a year older, nor does she feel that he's any worse than her own boy.

Then she talked of her son, saying he didn't like school, played truant, was too young to work.

"Why did he do it?" she asks, and adds: "If I knew, he wouldn't be where he is now. And I'd tell every mother so that she—but I don't understand. I don't understand."

unless some one—She broke down and cried.

For fourteen years this mother has worked and supported her son and two daughters. They live in a little apartment at 1139 Hyde Park boulevard. She has tried to be both mother and father.

Glad Girls Owe Her.

"Some girls are all right. It doesn't hurt them, my boy, Harry," Mrs. Kennedy continued. "They bring me all their troubles, but Willard didn't. I knew he was going around a lot, and tried to stop him, but he wouldn't listen. When I tried to make him he wouldn't come home to dinner. But I never dreamed of anything like this—until I saw the papers! Stealing and—she hurried on—"he never brought any of the money into the house, and I never asked him to take it, for he had no extravagant habits. The newspapers call him a 'sheik,' but I never knew of any girls."

Mrs. Kennedy doesn't blame Earl Woodward, who's a year older, nor does she feel that he's any worse than her own boy.

Shorty after Ferreday had told of his experience Harry E. Keenan, an advertising man, was arrested at the Hotel Atlantic as he was arranging to leave Washington, Ind., with his wife and child.

That the "badger game" simplest and most vulnerable of the common pieces of chaff was revealed at the federal building yesterday when Ben Ferreday, 60, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, near Gelwin, Ia., appeared at the bureau of investigation and told how men posing as United States deputy marshals had extorted $5,000 from him after bursting into his hotel room at 8 o'clock in the morning.

He also told of the alleged manner in which Mrs. E. C. Norman, 50, and her son, Harry E. Keenan, 26, his companion at the time of the badger raid, provoked upon him to deposit $5,000

in escrow as "indemnity" on his promise to marry her.

Shortly after Ferreday had told of his experience Harry E. Keenan, an advertising man, was arrested at the Hotel Atlantic as he was arranging to leave Washington, Ind., with his wife and child.

When taken to the federal building by Operative Maurice Wolf, Keenan was positively identified as one of the men who broke into Ferreday's room while Mrs. Norman was there and demanded $50,000 to "fix Mann" act charges.

Ferreday said that after being caught in the room he was promised, but that he had spent "some time between $2,000 and $10,000 in getting out of the mess."

POINCARE OPENS SENATE BATTLE TO RAISE MONEY

PARIS, March 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—The clash between the Poincare government and the finance committee of the senate over fiscal measures designed to balance the budget and to restore the franc in the exchange market began in the senate today. When the first skirmish was over it was found that only one of the adversaries had taken a clear position.

The opposition, through M. Berenger, member of the finance committee, uncompromisingly refused to grant authority to the government to "make laws."

Premier Poincare, in replying, evaded the issue and spoke lengthily on the necessity of stemming the adverse tide against the franc. He reiterated the determination of his government not to evacuate the Ruhr, except only on return for equivalent productive guarantees. But he failed to say whether the government would insist upon these views.

The subject of this report has not yet been definitely considered by the French ministry.

Concern expressed by the American bankers as to what might be the action of the French government on the Dawes report, it is asserted, was allayed in the progress of the negotiations.

Style at Hub.

M. Poincare disposed of M. Berenger's refusal to endorse the bill relating to conferring the power of issuing decrees on the government by saying he would not speak of decrees for the time being. When M. Berenger asserted that the net result of the negotiations was "to ask Frenchmen to pay additional six billion in taxes," the premier literally leaped to his feet, and declared emphatically that the Ruhr occupation showed a net profit for the French treasury.

The discussion was then diverted into a general review of the financial situation. M. Poincare beginning by assuring the senate that owing to "credits recently opened by France in America and the United States we have been able to resume the battle for the franc under favorable conditions."

The intervention of the Compagnie Générale Transatlantique (the French line) was increased by the number of deputies today from 7,000,000 to 21,000,000 francs.

Among the arguments advanced for granting the increase were the depreciation of the franc, increased cost of materials and the national interest in having France better represented on the North Atlantic passenger route.

Speculators in Trap.

New York, March 13.—(Special)—The drowsy signal was broadcast to-day by speculators who had caught short of the franc. Under a tremendous volume of buying, part of it for the French government and part of it from those who had sold francs short, the French currency advanced approximately two-fifths of a cent, thus erasing the entire decline which had been under way from last Feb. 14 to last Saturday. Trading was the most boisterous in the memory of foreign exchange dealers, and actual transactions in terms of francs continued well into the early evening.

The $100,000 credits established by the exact terms of the American loan were not announced. It is known that the French government paid a fairly stiff price for the credit. It is understood that the loan is to run for three months, but with the privilege of renewal for an additional three months. The interest rate is 5½ per cent, but there also is a commission of 1 per cent, based on whatever part of the credit is actually used by France.

Two well mannered young men yesterday raised the roof of Hotel Roosevelt in New York City, almost across the street from the flat where Marcelline Bailey was found murdered. They pointed revolvers at Miss Voss, the maid, and apologized for disturbing her.

One of the youths entertained Miss Voss in the parlor with polite conversation about Teapot Dome and the Duffy case. The Belmont infant began to cry in an unbroken stream, and he held the maid quiet him by showing her a photograph of his son.

"He is holding him there. His name is—"

"Ah, that was the question. Every radio fan had a different name, but several agreed it was Benny Berutis.

NEER CALAMITY, $753,000 WORTH, SAVED BY JUDGE

Grants Wrts as U.S.
Acts to Fill Gutters.

Federal Judge Evan A. Evans, in setting his name to two writs yesterday, saved from utter and immediate destruction exactly 5,024,000 "stems" of real beer.

In commenting on the decisions, elated lawyers explained that "a stem of beer" is an oblique expression referring to a quantity of beer that results for 15 cents. On this basis the amount of beer rescued has a potential value of $753,000.

The beer affected by two writs of injunctions granted by Judge Evans is the property of the Pilsen Products Company, of which City Treasurer John A. Cervenka is president, and the Peter Hand brewery, one of the largest beer manufacturing plants in Chicago.

On Way to Brewery.

When the writs were issued United States Marshal Robert H. Levy and a squad of deputies, armed with federal orders, were setting out for the Pilsen brewery to empty the company's big vats of well aged amber. More than 150,000 gallons were destined to reach the Chicago river before nightfall.

Attorney Benjamin Epstein, representing the Peter Hand concern, was the first to appear in the rôle of rescuer.

Attorney Epstein intimated to the court that the "ruthless destruction of property now so much in vogue" was a propaganda campaign designed to give the public an inaccurate conception of the effectiveness of the Volstead act.

Plea for Pilsen Company.

After a writ had been issued for the Peter Hand company, Attorney Ellwood Godman entered a plea in behalf of the Pilsen company and won a stay against the planned destruction of the Pilsen beer.

Later Attorney Epstein explained that the joint rescue of more than 100,000 gallons did not mean that the brewers expected to have the beer in "commercial channels" in the near future.

"It would be a shame for so much fine beer to go down the sewer at a time when congress is showing such a friendly attitude toward pure malt beverages of innocent alcoholic content," Mr. Epstein said.

It was explained that the beer would remain in the custody of the United States marshals assigned to the brewery. The staff will aging under scientific conditions while court battles and delays continue. It was explained.

SPEEDING TRAIN SMASHES AUTO, KILLING DRIVER

Hugh A. Harris, a salesman for the Pyramide company, 231 South Wells street, was killed yesterday.

The automobile in which he was driving was struck at the Harrison avenue crossing in Oak Park by an Aurora Elgin and Chicago interurban train, speeding through the village at fifty miles an hour.

The automobile was carried a block and a half before the motorman could bring the interurban train to a stop. Harris' body was extricated with difficulty from the twisted wreckage. The front car of the train was battered, several windows were broken, and fifty passengers were severely shaken.

Chief of Police L. K. McGrath declared the crossing gates had not been lowered, nor a warning bell sounded. He arrested the crossing gatekeeper, Edwin Hankins, 46, of 600 Ferdinand street, Forest Park, and booked him on a charge of manslaughter when he could offer no explanation for his failure to safeguard the crossing.

Harris' body was unidentified for several hours after the accident. Then papers were found, and later William H. Frazer, president of the Pyramid company, made Harris' identity positive.

Chief McGrath said a speed limit of thirty miles an hour had been observed for the electric trains while passing through Oak Park. He said that a few days ago he warned the interurban line's officials that the trains were going much faster, and he was given a promise that the matter would be investigated. The train involved in the crash was going at least fifty miles an hour, Chief McGrath said.

Two Other Deaths.

Two other motor deaths during the day brought the auto hand on the Twenty-fourth clock of death to the total of eighty-seven deaths. The latest was in the early afternoon when a touring car she was driving crashed into one of the suburb's new motor buses. Both the bus, which carried no passengers, and Mrs. Webster's car were wrecked.

DEATH WHISKY AT 15C SENDING MARY TO PRISON

"Moonshine Mary" Masnick, who ran a blind pig in La Grange, was sentenced to serve a term of one year to life for manslaughter for the death of a man who drank her home-made liquor.

The verdict was returned before Judge Frederic De Young yesterday morning after an all night deliberation. It is the first of its kind on record in this county, according to Assistant State's Attorneys Frank Matousek and Emmet Byrne, who prosecuted the woman.

The man to whom Mary sold the liquor was George L. Riedman, 45, a painter who lived in the Grange Park.

His body was found in a hole on the Brookfield road early on the morning of Nov. 8.

A coroner's chemist found death was caused by drinking wood alcohol.

The police traced the sale of the liquor to Mary's bar and samples found there contained traces of the poison.

Spring
Opening
Sale

WELCOME to the First DAY OF COURTESY

At nine o'clock this morning there will be unfolded to the women of Chicago a veritable treasure of finest, new merchandise, assembled from the four corners of the globe for our Spring Opening Sale.

Make your advance selections of Spring Opening merchandise today and it will be delivered to you on Monday, the opening day of the sale.

The city is now thoroughly awake to the importance of this sale to every Chicagoan. Here, in the store, is a scene rarely equaled in the annals of storekeeping. Nearly a quarter million dollars of specially purchased merchandise on display today in advance of the actual opening of the sale.

Rack after rack of gorgeous GOWNS, FROCKS, DRESSES, WRAPS, COATS, SUITS, FURS, SPORT COATS and SPORT SUITS. An assemblage that equals, if not surpasses, the foremost style exhibition on record.

An event like this cannot fail to make a deep and lasting impression on the mind of the public. People will realize, as never before, the powerful efforts George Bernards brings to bear in order to maintain a great and growing business through sheer value-giving.

One would have to be bargain-proof indeed not to feel some sort of an inward thrill and a source of sincere gratitude when inspecting offering after offering of the most desirable advanced new Spring merchandise at prices way below the actual value of the goods.

It is a great task to hold an event like this. It involves weeks and weeks of travel and constant manipulating to secure the goods desired and to bring the prices down to the lowest level.

Now that we are ready, we ask you to come and see the results. The whole aim of this sale is to give great values, nothing else matters. We want women, who come in today (and tomorrow) to carry away the thought and knowledge that the values they saw here were beyond compare.

It gives us great pleasure to again invite you to the FIRST DAY OF COURTESY, and partake of the golden opportunity this awe-inspiring and epoch-making event presents to all the women of Chicago and its surrounding territory.

IT'S like this: We simply won't carry over merchandise from one season to another in this new store of ours.

Already we are crowded with spring suits. Every heavy overcoat on our great overcoat floor must go within the next few days.

This is a sale for every man who knows the value of money. You can get next winter's coat now at half what you'd expect to pay.

For $15 you now get our regular $30 overcoat—an overcoat generally recognized as being as good as most stores sell for $40 or $45.

For $50 you get the silk and satin lined ulsters of the richest imported fabrics—the best coats you could get during the season at any price. It's your last chance.

Money back if you're not satisfied, just as though you paid regular prices.

M. O. THAT'S ALL.

The city council will not accept the plan of Mayor Dever and Commissioner Sprague for general installation of water meters. That is M. O. working in its logical fashion. It is political use of a public utility. Put a utility into politics and politicians will make hash of it.

It is fairly difficult to run a water department at a loss, but under M. O. it is inevitable. The Commonwealth Edison company pumps the city water. Any building which has an adequate water supply above the second floor owes that to Mr. Insull's company. Office buildings and apartments which have sufficient water get it from Edison pumps. The buildings which do not have pumps do not have enough water.

The city puts the politics in the water works. The private company puts the water in the pipes. The sanitary district once furnished the city with power for the water system. That was good economy but poor politics. It was good politics for the city to deal with coal companies and then with electric companies. It was good politics for the sanitary district to deal with private purchasers. Both these public corporations eventually went the way of politics.

There has been an effort for twenty years to get a general meter system, but politics in the council is just as successful now as ever in preventing it. If all the users were paying on the meter there would not be the waste which makes the water system one of M. O.'s politically successful municipal failures. In buildings which are metered water is used but not wasted. Consumers who do not have meters may do as they please and the municipal utility takes the loss.

No utility can be kept in shape and operated upon the plan of scattering city money where it will gain political favor. That plan is the essence of M. O. Municipal ownership when it includes a municipal operation is inherent in it all the objects of politics which never are the objects of efficient administration.

Efficient administration and political advantage are contradictory terms and antagonistic conditions. They have different purposes and work for different results. It may be possible for a municipality to have the title of a utility without ruining it, but it cannot assume the operation without doing so.

When Mr. Dever and Mr. Sprague want to make the metered use of water general they are stopped. The political basis of the water department remains because it is the basis of all municipal operation.

This is inherent in government operation of railroads, in municipal operation of street cars, in every utility administration which is put in the hands of politicians to whom manipulation of the public is the chief concern.

The city cannot pump water and sell it at cost to the citizens. Physically it must rely on a private corporation. Politically it floods the drainage pipes with it. If the wasted water of Chicago turned into the streets this would be Venice and then we might have politically operated sewers instead of street cars.

DISCOURAGING CRIME.

The Chicago crime commission marks the close of its fifth successful year of activity in defense of the lives and property of Chicagoans with a report which amply justifies its continuation and its support by public spirited citizens. The report is valuable in itself because of the proof which it presents that crime can be discouraged by increasing certainty of punishment, and is being discouraged in that manner.

For instance, cases of robbery with a gun have decreased from 2,558 in 1921, when only 22.2 per cent of defendants were punished, to 1,492 in 1923, when 55.49 per cent were punished. Burglaries have decreased from 4,744 in 1921, when only 30.64 per cent of defendants were punished, to 3,019 in 1923, when 49.54 per cent were punished. The record on murders is not so good. They increased from 196 in 1921, when 24.44 per cent of defendants were punished, to 276 in 1923, when 49.64 per cent were punished. But in this matter the increase in actual murders is probably due largely to staying among the criminal elements themselves in connection with such new developments of criminal organization as those involved in bootlegging and moonshining activities. The figures do not alter the lesson to be derived from the statistics on felonies as a whole, which show a steady decrease of major crime in direct proportion to the increase in convictions and punishment of criminals.

The record reflects credit upon the office of the state's attorney, upon the criminal courts, upon the police, and upon the crime commission, which maintains a constant pressure upon all law enforcement authorities. It ought to do more than that. It ought to inspire even a better record for the current year.

Criminals are willing to take a chance with the law only when they expect to be able to beat it. If the records convince them that they are more likely to be caught and punished for crime than to escape with the fruits of their crime, they will hesitate and in many cases refrain from committing the crime. The likelihood of a term in prison encourages them. The certainty of such punishment will stop them almost entirely. This is the end at which Chicago authorities must aim and which they can attain if they persist.

A HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS MUST NOT PERIL FOUR BILLION.

Arrangements by a group of American bankers, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., to lend $100,000,000 to France to help check the decline of the franc, and for other purposes, brings the international financial situation to a new point of interest. The announcement is made in American newspapers as that of an ordinary business operation on ordinary business principles. Although we have not seen the French newspapers chronicling the development, we may safely venture the assertion that they treat it in an entirely different manner.

In France the securing of such a foreign loan is a political achievement. It is recorded as such, and will be treated and will have influence as such. But while it may ultimately have political reactions in the United States it is commonly considered as a business proposition, the exclusive affair of the great financial interests, and of merely incidental interest to the great majority of our people. In that attitude there is some danger. We ought to understand the possible effects of this loan in the United States and be prepared to guard against any evil outcome.

A French debt of approximately $4,000,000,000 is still due to the United States government. It has never been funded; the interest has not been paid upon it; and France has not indicated that it intends to pay. On the contrary, all the indications have been to the effect that France does not intend to put the obligation in businesslike form, or to pay.

Yet France has paid, and is paying, principal and interest on commercial loans regularly. That makes its credit good with the bankers. Ineluctably it makes the bankers willing to have the public indebtedness ignored or stricken off in order to continue profitable private financial relations.

Since that attitude has been apparent in American financial circles with reference to France, it is logical to assume that the attitude will be strengthened when $100,000,000 is added to such debts. It means that propaganda for cancellation of the public debt will be greater now than before. We must guard against that.

The propaganda for such cancellation of the public debt for the greater protection of the private debt has taken various subtle forms, both in America and in France. Chief in prominence in this propaganda has been the oft repeated charge that the United States never paid its full financial debt to France growing out of our revolutionary war, or even the full amount of the Louisiana purchase. That according to the best authority we can find, is false.

Secretary of the Treasury Woodbury's annual report for 1834 says, "the government had received, whether at home or abroad, the entire debt of both the revolution and the late war; paid the purchase money for Florida and Louisiana," etc. The propagandas of the present day cancellationists probably is based upon the fact that certain subsidies, amounting to $1,996,500 obtained in 1777 and 1781 from France by Benjamin Franklin in gifts, and so regarded both by France and by the American government, were never assumed by this government as a debt, and were not paid. The acknowledged debts were paid. That is all that will be asked of France, and that must not be clouded by the efforts of private bankers trying to protect their more or less speculative loans.

THE PROLETARIAT PUTS ON THE PURPLE.

James Brown, Socialist member of parliament for South Ayrshire, a sound Presbyterian Scot, is appointed lord high commissioner to the Scotch assembly for the Church of Scotland. In this post James Brown, a miner, is his grace and he and his wife will live in Holyrood palace, the residence of Scottish kings.

Mr. Brown says that he is gleeful. As a lad he used to look with big eyes at the palace and now he is to live in it and he says that he intends to be his grace all over the place. He does not intend to take any destructive simplicity into office. He will conform and be as the Scotch dukes and earls who were his predecessors.

When any one addresses him as "Your Grace," he will respond, "Aye, lad, I'm the mon." Mr. Brown intends to be there, with all the required trappings and with all the circumstance and pomp. There will be no departure from the dignity and grandeur which were his predecessors.

The ministers of the Labor government appeared the other day at the first royal levee at St. James palace in blue coats, gold lace, swords, glass shoe buckles and all the garb of ceremony. King George had allowed it to be understood that this would not be required. The new government might make its own modes and manners, but human nature does not work that way.

Power and high position are not leveling. Their appearances may seem as bubbles when some one else has them, but when they may be had for reaching out, most great democrats will take a gold coat rather than stout wool.

Cromwell's first daughter, Bridget, married Henry Ireton, but his third, Mary, married Lord Crombaw.

If Lloyd George had kept his grip Megan might have become Princess of Wales.

FILIPIN FREEDOM.
(Michigan State Journal)

President Coolidge has informed the Philippine independent mission that in his opinion the time has not come for the separation of the islands from this country. Further, he expresses full confidence in the administration of Gov. Gen. Wood. He says: "In the present state of world relationship the American government owes an obligation to continue extending a protecting arm to the people of these islands."

The American people may sympathize with the aspirations for independence of others, even as they do not the wisdom of such aspirations. There is a lot of false idealism offered on behalf of freedom; the belief that any people may be far happier and better off when under their own rule than under that of a larger state. It is ridiculous, for instance, to claim that some of the warring Latin American lands are better off than they would be under the benign government of either Great Britain or Uncle Sam.

Independence brings with it greater obligations and responsibilities, higher costs, more efforts and duties. The Filipinos have a certain power in their own government, coupled with the mighty protection of the United States. Unless that protection is maintained what chance have the Filipinos in a stormy world of national antagonisms? How long could these islanders defend themselves against the encroachments of jealous countries, which would be guided by as idealistic thoughts whatever? For their own self-preservation they must look to America.

DOING WITHOUT SLEEP.
WERN Mr. Kleitman of the University of Chicago investigated the question of insomnia one of the conclusions he arrived at was that we could get along on less sleep than we believed ourselves. His theory is that we sleep too much, just as we eat too much.

Within certain limits we are not harmed particularly either by our oversleeping or our overeating. The human machine is built like a Corvus engine. It runs well within its powers. It can bear a very great overload without strain. Its parts are in duplicate, and each of them is built to do far more than it is ordinarily called on to do.

There is no evidence that we harm ourselves, or ever will, by sleeping too much. The human machine is built like a Corvus engine. It runs well within its powers. ## SENATE RATIFIES RUM PACT WITH GREAT BRITAIN

Permits U. S. to Search English Ships at Sea.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—The treaty between the United States and Great Britain authorizing search and seizure of suspected liquor craft beyond the three-mile limit was ratified today by the Senate. The vote, which came after more than two hours of an executive session, was stated officially to be 61 to 7.

The treaty has yet to be ratified by the British parliament, but action there is expected shortly.

Under its provisions craft suspected of carrying liquor may be pursued from the shore for purposes of search or seizure, one hour's steaming distance from the suspected craft. In return British steamers entering American territorial waters may carry liquor under seal for use on outward voyages.

Orduna Owners Fight Selma.

While the senate was voting on the rum treaty, owners of the British steamship Orduna, seized at New York yesterday by federal prohibition enforcement officials, complained to the state department through the British embassy today that the bond for the release of the ship had been fixed at an unreasonably high figure.

Prohibition officials here believe the amount of $1,000,000 is too high and should be reduced, but can't do so against the Orduna. Commissioner Hayes said today, while there were many technical questions of law involved, the government was prepared to meet any protests by Great Britain.

Prohibition agents, in conjunction with the customs authorities, Mr. Hayes said, had been working on the Orduna case for six weeks, and made three separate "buys" on previous trips by the liner.

British Embassy Awaits Report.

No action will be taken by the British embassy here until the report of the British consul in New York has been received.

The house took steps today to enable the coast guard to conduct more vigorous patrols on rum runners.

By a vote of 305 to 49 a bill was passed and sent to the senate which would authorize transfer to the coast guard of 100 naval vessels adapted for patrol work.

Authority also would be granted the service to temporarily increase its personnel to furnish crews for the craft.

Ship's Bond Fixed at $1,000,000.

New York, March 13.—Federal Judge A. N. Hand agreed, after a conference today of Royal Mail line officials and government representatives, to release the Orduna under $1,000,000 bond so it could sail on schedule to Europe.

Holding that Capt. Walter F. Warner condoned the smuggling of $100,000 worth of such contraband, the complainant declared him liable to a fine of $200,000 or more.

Seven men now under arrest are charged by Assistant District Attorney Clark to have confessed that the Orduna was smuggling on each westward voyage and that Capt. Warner knew all about it.

Before Prosecutor Clark, Capt. Warner denied he knowingly signed a false manifest showing he had no cargo but books without naming them. He admitted 700 bottles of beer were not entered on the manifest, but contended they were part of the Orduna's stores.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—The treaty between the United States and Great Britain authorizing search and seizure of suspected liquor craft beyond the three-mile limit was ratified today by the Senate. The vote, which came after more than two hours of an executive session, was stated officially to be 61 to 7.

The treaty has yet to be ratified by the British parliament, but action there is expected shortly.

Under its provisions craft suspected of carrying liquor may be pursued from the shore for purposes of search or seizure, one hour's steaming distance from the suspected craft. In return British steamers entering American territorial waters may carry liquor under seal for use on outward voyages.

Orduna Owners Fight Selma.

While the senate was voting on the rum treaty, owners of the British steamship Orduna, seized at New York yesterday by federal prohibition enforcement officials, complained to the state department through the British embassy today that the bond for the release of the ship had been fixed at an unreasonably high figure.

Prohibition officials here believe the amount of $1,000,000 is too high and should be reduced, but can't do so against the Orduna. Commissioner Hayes said today, while there were many technical questions of law involved, the government was prepared to meet any protests by Great Britain.

Prohibition agents, in conjunction with the customs authorities, Mr. Hayes said, had been working on the Orduna case for six weeks, and made three separate "buys" on previous trips by the liner.

British Embassy Awaits Report.

No action will be taken by the British embassy here until the report of the British consul in New York has been received.

The house took steps today to enable the coast guard to conduct more vigorous patrols on rum runners.

By a vote of 305 to 49 a bill was passed and sent to the senate which would authorize transfer to the coast guard of 100 naval vessels adapted for patrol work.

Authority also would be granted the service to temporarily increase its personnel to furnish crews for the craft.

Ship's Bond Fixed at $1,000,000.

New York, March 13.—Federal Judge A. N. Hand agreed, after a conference today of Royal Mail line officials and government representatives, to release the Orduna under $1,000,000 bond so it could sail on schedule to Europe.

Holding that Capt. Walter F. Warner condoned the smuggling of $100,000 worth of such contraband, the complainant declared him liable to a fine of $200,000 or more.

Seven men now under arrest are charged by Assistant District Attorney Clark to have confessed that the Orduna was smuggling on each westward voyage and that Capt. Warner knew all about it.

Before Prosecutor Clark, Capt. Warner denied he knowingly signed a false manifest showing he had no cargo but books without naming them. He admitted 700 bottles of beer were not entered on the manifest, but contended they were part of the Orduna's stores.

THEO. A. KOCHS,
BARBER SUPPLY
DEALER, IS DEAD

Theodore A. Kochs, pioneer manufacturer of barbers' supplies and equipment, died yesterday at the Parkview Hospital, at the age of 75 years.

Mr. Kochs had been ill for nearly a year. He was stricken with a heart attack in Memphis last May, at which time his wife and son rushed to his bedside by special train.

Mr. Kochs was born in Germany March 24, 1849, and came to America in 1867.

He entered the drug business, his pharmacy being one of the many swept away in the Chicago fire. Later he founded the business which now bears his name, Wells Street between Huron and Erie streets. He was a member of the Union League and Chicago Lincoln clubs.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Thelma Doerr Kochs, he leaves a daughter, Roberta C. Gaertner, and a son, Robert T. Kochs, present head of the Theodore A. Koch company. Funeral services will be held from the residence, 559 Wellington avenue, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

HERSHIE MILLER'S SHOP IS BOMBED; ESCAPES DEATH

he recently visited the state's attorney's office to clear himself in connection with the Duffy murders.

"Dear," O'Banion, regarded as the chief of "Hershie's," was a private eye of the state's attorney in a room in the Hotel Sherman when the attempt to kill Miller was made and when the bomb was thrown. Other gangsters who are known to hate Miller were there, however.

At the time the attempt to assassinate Miller occurred O'Banion was being shaved. He was told the news almost immediately.

"Well, they can't get anything on me," he said. "I have an alibi—barber, a minkie, a detective from the state's attorney's office, and a newspaper reporter. You can't beat that."

Revenge for Duffy Death.

Acting Chief of Detectives Schoemaker was of the opinion that both outrages might have been the work of a Philadelphia gang, "pals" of the plain Dougherty who came to Chicago to war on Chicago gangsters in revenge for Dougherty's death.

After the afternoon attempt to assassinate Miller, State's Attorney Crowe ordered a roundup of every mobster and town runum in the city, "to once and for all end the rule of the pistol in Chicago."

He immediately called in W. W. Smith, John Sharbaro, Harold Levy.

Sees Auto Approach.

During the morning Miller had been in the Acme. When he left he drove along Clark to Racine, then turning south. Soon he noticed another car—a Cadillac touring—approaching, three men in the back seat and two in front.

As it approached, the front driver, not driving, suddenly drew a gun and, with one arm bent across his face to prevent recognition, opened fire at Miller. At the first shot Miller dropped down to the floor of his limousine.

Two bullets crashed through the rear window, one hit the front seat, and two others passed through the front doors. It was almost a miracle that Miller was not hit. Hershie tried to draw his own gun, which he always carries, but could not because his right hand is in a plaster cast. He said it had been cut by a broken windshield.

The attackers, seemingly thinking they had hit their intended victim when he ducked, sped off.

Only the one man did any shooting, according to Miller.

Reports were current in the neighborhood that shortly after the shooting a car was seen speeding away with two men in the front, the running board being this could not be verified.

"I can't understand it," said Miller.

"For a long time I left the garage and have tried to live quietly, even moving to a new neighborhood. Perhaps some people thought I was talking about the Duffy killing, or perhaps they thought some business deal hadn't gone just right. I may have an inkling as to who the car belonged to, but—well, I don't want to say anything about it."

"It began to look like I must do something to fight it out to the end with some gang that seems to be after me. I've had an idea for a week that a mob was trailing me."

A strange coincidence is that the case against O'Banion for shooting Davey Miller is scheduled to come up in court today and that Davey will not be present. He is in California. There are rumors that Miller accepted $9,000 in fees of appearing as prosecution witness.

The Millers—there are six brothers—have long been familiar names in the underworld. Hershie was mixed up in the slaying of two policemen, others of the family have been mentioned many times in beer wars underworld shootings, and squabbles. Always it has been gang against gang but Hershie lately claims to have forsaken the old ways on the wrong side.

It has been no secret for many months that the O'Banion group were after the Millers, but last night Hershie refused to mention the O'Banion outfit in discussing the attempt on his life.

Fractures Victim's Skull to Steal a Suit of Clothes

A shabby dressed young Negro entered Abraham Hartsherry's store at 1443 West Madison street yesterday and asked to be shown a suit of clothes. As soon as Hartsherry's back was turned the colored man crashed his head with an iron bar and rushed out with a suit.

"I began to look like I must do something to fight it out to the end with some gang that seems to be after me. I've had an idea for a week that a mob was trailing me."

The Millers—there are six brothers—have long been familiar names in the underworld. Hershie was mixed up in the slaying of two policemen, others of the family have been mentioned many times in beer wars underworld shootings, and squabbles. Always it has been gang against gang but Hershie lately claims to have forsaken the old ways on the wrong side.

It has been no secret for many months that the O'Banion group were after the Millers, but last night Hershie refused to mention the O'Banion outfit in discussing the attempt on his life.

"I began to look like I must do something to fight it out to the end with some gang that seems to be after me. I've had an idea for a week that a mob was trailing me."

A strange coincidence is that the case against O'Banion for shooting

COMMITTEEMEN IN SENATE FIGHT MELLON ON TAX

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
Washington, D. C., March 13.—[Special.]—Sentiment of members of the Senate finance committee as developed during two days of questioning of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has made it appear unlikely that the original Mellon bill can be reported from the committee.

Secretary Mellon and Under-Secretary Winston were before the committee in executive session today for the second time and were bombarded with questions, some of a hostile character coming from Republicans as well as Democrats.

Would Help the Bonus.

Discussion centered chiefly about the government's policy with the retirement of the public debt. Several members of the committee showed a disposition to favor increasing the aggregate of tax reduction by allowing the payment of the public debt over a longer period of years than contemplated by the present law. Under the present 2½ per cent sinking fund law the public debt, exclusive of the amount represented by the obligations of foreign nations, would be retired in thirty-one years.

By amending the law as to cut the 2½ per cent sinking fund rate in half, from $100,000,000 to $50,000,000 additional annually would be added to the amount available for reduction in taxes or for use in financing the soldiers' bonus. Those favoring extending payment of the public debt were believed to have a bonus in mind.

G. O. P. Differences with Mellon.

To answer queries of senators on other propositions Secretary Mellon and Under-Secretary Winston brought with them today a mass of statistics on revenues, expenditures, and losses under proposed tax rates.

While none of the day's consideration was on other points of the tax question than rates, the impression grew as a result of the general attitude shown that two or three Republican members of the committee would refuse to accept the Mellon surtax rates and that they also would decline to accept his recommendations on some other matters.

In view of the failure to obtain action on President Coolidge's recommendation for emergency action to make a 2½ per cent reduction in taxes on 1923 income, senators take the position that the general tax bill is not likely to be vetoed, and that efforts should be made to report it from committee in a form which can be passed in the senate.

WIFE GIVES HER BLOOD TO SAVE NOTED EXPLORER

Herbert E. Bradley, noted African explorer for the American Museum of Natural History, jungle big game hunter and gorilla killer, lay last night in the Illinois Central hospital in a critical condition from an ulcer in the stomach, said to have been contracted two years ago from eating goat's meat in the jungles of Africa.

Although Mary Hastings Bradley, the explorer's wife, a society woman and well known as an author, had twice given of her blood for transfusions, he still was in a dangerous condition when night came yesterday, so low that Mrs. Bradley refused to leave his bedside and return to their home at Hyde Park house.

Mr. Bradley, when not on exploring expeditions, is a lawyer with offices in the loop. Two weeks ago he returned from his office and took dinner as usual. Suddenly, after the meal, he was stricken with a hemorrhage. Mrs. Bradley became alarmed. She summoned Drs. Joseph Miller and James W. Walker, who at once descended the explorer taken to the hospital.

"I think my criticism of San Francisco was far too rigid for the explorer to stomach, so they gave me the cold shoulder in a way unbefitting to a good breeding," he wrote recently to a friend.

The second transfusion, the doctors said, will save Mr. Bradley's life.

ASK CANADIANS BE QUIZZED ON WATER DEFICIT

The sanitary district of Chicago, through a formal resolution yesterday demanded a congressional investigation of alleged water piracy at Niagara Falls by Canadian power interests.

"Sir Adam Beck," name of the Toronto Hydro-Electric Power Commission,

With a spirit of arrangement a Canadian faction seeking to interfere with Chicago's present diversion of Lake Michigan water for sanitary purposes, paved the way for the resolution, which was introduced by Trustee Michael Rosenberg.

Call on Congress.

Yesterday's action constitutes a call upon members of congress from the state of Illinois to institute such investigation as may be necessary to determine how much water is now and for months past has been taken by the Canadian power interests from the Niagara river above Niagara Falls and Lake Erie, and that other steps be taken to require them to abide by and conform to the terms of the 1910 treaty.

The imperative resolution, though under consideration for some time, was immediately provoked by yesterday's press reports from Ottawa, Ont., indicating Sir Adam Beck and his associates are marshaling legislative forces to compel the dominion government to act at once in favor of Canadian power interests.

Success Prompts More.

Another prompting factor was the recent success of the solicitor general of the United States in obtaining an advancement on the Supreme court docket of the case in which the federal government seeks to enjoin the sanitary district from diverting more than 4,167 cubic feet per second.

This is the volume prescribed by a war department order, and a federal court decision upon which appeal now is pending held to provisions of the order. Hearing on the appeal has been set for Nov. 14.

The boundary waters treaty, according to a drainage board trustee, expressing limits Canada is to withdraw of 28,000 cubic feet per second, allowing the United States 20,000 cubic feet per second. The discrepancy in water allotments is accounted for on the assumption that a diversion of 16,000 cubic feet at Chicago was contemplated.

Following a recent investigation by James P. Ransay, assistant chief of engineer of the sanitary district, it now is charged the Canadian power people are withdrawing, and have been for months past, 7,500 cubic feet per second in excess of express stipulations of the treaty. It further is alleged they have under construction power plants which, when completed, will require 17,000 cubic feet per second more than the treaty allows.

Carry It to "Enemy."

After a conference on an elaborate report, Edward J. Kelley, chief engineer; William J. Healy, president, and his associates determined to "carry the fight to the enemy." The resolution was the first gun of the new campaign.

"We must now ask for a show-down," said Trustee King. "Members of congress must be placed on record either for Canada and Canadian power interests or for the 3,000,000 inhabitants of Chicago who are entitled to the protection of congress."

Begin Hearings Monday.

Washington, D. C., March 13.—Hearings will be begun before the house committee on rivers and harbors Monday on the bill introduced by Representative Frank T. McManus (D., Ill.) authorizing an appropriation of $5,700,000 for the improvement of the Illinois river and containing a provision empowering the sanitary district of Chicago to divert 10,000 cubic feet of water per second from Lake Michigan for purposes of drainage.

Representatives of the Chicago Sanitary district and spokesman for Peoria commercial bodies will appear to urge an early report on the bill.

PHELAN CHARGES U. S. IS AFRAID TO OFFEND JAPS

Washington, D. C., March 13.—Efforts to deal adequately with the Japanese immigration have failed, former Senator Phelan of California today told the senate immigration committee, because of the "subversive character" of American diplomacy, "which is fear mostly."

Appearing as spokesman for a California delegation at the committee's hearing on the Johnson immigration bill, Mr. Phelan declared that to give Japanese the same recognition accorded Europeans under the quota provisions "would be to discriminate" not against them but "in favor of them" against the Chinese, Hindus, Slavs, and other proud cultural people.

Europe Keeps Good Men Home.

New York, March 13.—European nations are withholding passports from desirable American immigrants and sending to the United States their "old men and rubbish," Secretary of Labor Davis told members of the League of Political Education in an address today.

He advocated a special system whereby immigrants would be called upon to pass physical, mental and moral examinations at the hands of American consuls.

FARM BLOC SPLIT IN SENATE; LOAN FUND BILL LOSES

Washington, D. C., March 13.—(Special)—Failure of an agricultural legislation at this session seemed to proceed today when the Norbeck-Burtness bill providing a loan fund to aid in the diversification of crops in the wheat growing area met defeat in the senate by a vote of 32 to 41. The bill established a fund of $75,000,000.

President Coolidge had supported this bill, which also had strong support from the northwest. The agricultural forces, however, were not a unit in believing that it would be effective.

The general opinion was that the Norbeck-Burtness bill had a better chance than the McNary-Haugen bill creating a $200,000,000 corporation to dispose of surplus farm products abroad, inasmuch as the President did not support the latter.

Radical senators like the Noble-Simler bill, costing $100,000,000 corporation to buy and sell farm products, were out on a scheme for assessing losses back to the producers, is preferable to the McNary-Haugen bill and will seek its substitution when the latter bill is called up for action in the senate.

Agricultural forces now seem so split that both the McNary-Haugen and the Noble-Simler bills are expected to meet defeat.

FOREIGN RIVALS STIR UP WOE FOR U.S. LINES ABROAD

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright 1924 by The Chicago Tribune.)
BUDAPEST, March 13.—"Leviathan sinks." Passengers saved by being taken off in boats.

These headlines in many Hungarian newspapers today over a tardy but sensational account of the Leviathan's accident last autumn caused great excitement in Budapest for some hours, but it developed to be simply the latest attack on the United States lines by some foreign shipping companies. An underground campaign against the United States foreign shipping companies continues ceaselessly.

Police Tyrannize U. S.

The Budapest police, under inspiration of foreign shipping interests, have just decided that the United States lines from advertising its ships. They have put the plate which said its ships were owned by the United States government from above the door of the company's office. They have filed a charge against the local manager of the company because an article in the Budapest newspapers described the Leviathan as one of the finest passenger ships in the world.

The police accuse the United States lines of condoning the Hungarian lines which provide every one from encouraging emigration although all the English lines, particularly Cunard, now are advertising Canada extravagantly. The English, French, Italian, and German lines have entirely escaped this sort of persecution.

The local manager of one big English company openly boasts in Budapest that his company had enough influence in Washington to get Grant Smith, American high commissioner in Budapest, transferred to Albania on account of his activity in behalf of the United States lines here.

Winning Out Anyways.

In spite of these obstacles, the United States lines have taken 1,400 Hungarian emigrants to America during the fiscal year, compared with 2,400 taken by Cunard, which formerly took nearly all.

Various foreign shipping companies have sold in America 20,000 passengers to America to be sent to relatives in Hungary. The present Hungarian quota is only 7,000.

The present emigrant policy of Hungary is to get rid of all Jews and distasteful elements in the country, and it is almost impossible for farmers and farm laborers to get passage ports.

ELEVATED WALKS URGED TO SOLVE TRAFFIC MUDDLE

Council Hears Report from J. Sloan.

Results of recent loop surveys emphasize the necessity for separation of pedestrian and vehicular traffic in the downtown district by elevation of sidewalks, declared John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvement, last night. Reports of traffic checked, stationed at busy corners, will be transmitted to members of the Building Management Association at their dinner in the Great Northern hotel on March 27, when Mr. Sloan will outline his proposal.

Thousands Cross Street.

Indication of the prevailing unsafe conditions; a count of expert checkers at Clark and Madison streets on March 6 reported that 59,872 pedestrians crossed the intersection of the two streets between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. Other thousands who turned corners without crossing the streets were not counted.

During the same period a total of 4,583 automobiles containing 4,929 passengers, including drivers, passed, and 445 street cars carrying 12,632 riders. Twenty buses with 222 passengers passed in the three hours. In all, a total of 77,446 persons, including passengers in all classes of vehicles, were observed.

On the same day at State street and Jackson boulevard a total of 66,085 passed, both pedestrians and passengers. From 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. at La Salle and Madison, 1,000 persons were discovered to be 95 percent as large as those at Clark and Madison.

A Bright Picture.

"It takes little stretch of one's imagination to picture what it would mean in safety, comfort, and dispatch, if we could separate any appreciable percentage of that pedestrian traffic from the mass of vehicular traffic," said Mr. Sloan.

Limitation of the maximum height of buildings to 240 feet will prevent more than normal increase in pedestrian and vehicular traffic, according to Ald. Wiley Mills (37th) who sponsored an amendment in the council.

Planning committee yesterday to the building code reducing the permitted height to that figure from 264 feet now authorized.

Would Divert Traffic.

Such prohibition would force expansion of the business district into adjacent or surrounding districts, the alderman asserted. Dr. W. A. Tolson, former health commissioner, urged adoption of the amendment as health insurance measure, pointing out that narrow streets deprived of sunlight by high buildings harbored pneumonia and other disease bacteria. John Plant, fire prevention engineer, approved the reduction amendment as a safety measure. Other hearings on the amendment are scheduled for March 24 by the committee.

British Labor in Commons Defeated by 234 to 207

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

LONDON, March 13.—The government had its first defeat this afternoon on a motion for the suspension of the 11 o'clock rule next week owing to the press of business. The government wished the house to sit after 11 o'clock in order to dispose of the budget, but the house voted against this by 207 to 234.

COOLIDGE MAN BREAKS SILENCE; CHARGES INSULT

Resents Ickes Letter on G. O. P. Delegates.

BY PARKE BROWN.

James W. Good, western manager of the Coolidge campaign, shattered his reputation yesterday for being almost as silent as the President himself.

Mr. Good received a taunting letter from Harold L. Jones, Illinois manager for Hiram W. Johnson, and the ink on it in the afternoon papers was hardly dry before an emphatic reply was on the way to the newspaper offices.

Calls Ickes Letter Insult.

"Are you to be understood as taking the position that, regardless of the result, it is the intention of the old guard to nominate a candidate by the ruthless use of patronage controlled southern delegates?"

The Johnson manager also asked how much importance was attached to Attorney General Daugherty's candidacy for delegate from Ohio.

Good's letter expressed his confidence that the 1,100 delegates will carry out their instructions.

vote in the south for control of the convention.

"Are you to be understood as taking the position that, regardless of the result, it is the intention of the old guard to nominate a candidate by the ruthless use of patronage controlled southern delegates?"

The Johnson manager also asked how much importance was attached to Attorney General Daugherty's candidacy for delegate from Ohio.

Good's letter expressed his confidence that the 1,100 delegates will carry out their instructions.

Calls Letter an Insult.

"In doing so," he continued, "they will by an overwhelming majority, nominate Coolidge for President." There is no sentiment in the Republican party throughout the country for the nomination of any other man for that high office.

The suggestion that a majority of the 1,100 delegates to the Cleveland convention are purchasable by patronage is an insult not only to the Republicans but to the judgment of all clean thinking men and women everywhere."

The writer mentioned the already recorded selection of 180 delegates instructed for Coolidge in Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota and other states, and said that the sentiment in the states which chose them is "practically unanimous" for him.

Democrats Discuss Al Smith.

Visiting George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic leader, yesterday, Judge M. L. Lueck of Beaver Dam, Wis., who is one of the leaders in the Democratic party in that state, predicted that the Wisconsin delegation to the New York convention will be almost unanimous for Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York.

"We are for Gov. Smith," he said, and the sentiment in Wisconsin is with him."

organization, called attention to the fact that some states which already have chosen their delegates and alternates have included women among their representatives. They are Minnesota, Iowa, Kentucky, Virginia, Colorado, Kansas, and New Hampshire.

Sixty-four women are among those elected to represent their states, said Miss Edwards, "and it is interesting to note that they have been put forward and chosen by the Coolidge forces in every instance."

SMALL JUBILEE FAILS TO STRIKE EXALTANT NOTE

Springfield Roundup Frost Covered.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Springfield, Ill., March 13.—(Special)—With little enthusiasm and less confidence, administration pay rollers from all corners of the state gathered here tonight for the official windup of Gov. Len Small's downstate campaign.

They came on the governor's orders at state expense "for important business." This "business" was to make reports on the progress of the campaign and to whom it up for Small at the state annual meeting.

State departments received a half holiday. Even stenographers and clerks were released from their jobs at noon to wander around with Small badges pinned to them.

But in the whole collection was an atmosphere of discouragement on the part of those who depend on Small's success for a continuance on the pay roll. Many of them with a half-and prison employees, and like—waned around the capitol, many of them taking their first look at the big dome, county and district leaders were talking "cold turkey" in the executive office.

Many of them delivered ultimatums on patronage and kindred subjects. And Public Foots the Bill.

The "people" faced a heavy bill. The men only paid today's traveling and hotel expenses of hundreds of pay rollers but the propaganda output of a dozen Springfield printing plants was distributed and went into the mails with printing and postage charged to various departments.

Quincy furnished fair sample of the visiting delegations. A party of Quincy Negroes admitted they were picked up to come to Springfield at no expense to themselves to pad the delegation.

State departments received a half holiday. Even stenographers and clerks were released from their jobs at noon to wander around with Small badges pinned to them.

COUNCIL GIVES BACK UPKEEP ON PRIVATE AUTOS

TIME GROWS SHORT IN WHICH TO SEND NAME FOR MAGAZINE

Allowances for the maintenance of privately owned automobiles used in the city's service by municipal employees, slashed in half by Mayor Devine's "economy" budget suggestions, were restored to 1923 levels last night by the council finance committee in its consideration of the 1924 appropriation bill.

Reduction of the allowances, now ranging from $60 to $90 a month in various departments, to a new range of from $25 to $45 a month was suggested by efficiency experts employed by the mayor.

Would Save $100,000.

Such a cut, the experts declared, would effect an annual saving of more than $100,000. Maintenance of 251 personally owned machines used by city employees in their work cost the city approximately $250,000 last year.

If the "economy" move did not precipitate a strike by the eighty-four members of the local union employed in the municipal gas and electricity department, Irving (Bosco) Knott, business agent for the electrical workers' union pointed out that the $100,000 saving would be more than absorbed in necessary appropriations for modernization of the department, as well as maintenance of the new equipment in city garages. If the cut became effective the electrical workers, most of them essential inspectors, light cleaners, trimmers, and circuit repairmen would immediately withdraw their own cars from the city's service, Knott told the committee informally.

Means Crippling Service.

Similar action by employees in other departments would seriously cripple many branches of the city's activities until cars could be bought, it was pointed out.

After Controller Martin O'Brien told them that the administration had contemplated a cut in the allowances rates unchanged, but had rejected the efficiency experts' recommendation to be incorporated in the departmental estimates, the committee voted unanimously to restore the old figure to gas and electricity department employees.

Members of the committee renewed their interest in the estimates of 1924 expenditures for the department of public works when it was revealed that Commissioner A. A. Sprague's program includes ouster of Col. Henry A. Allen, mechanical engineer in the department for thirteen years. Col. Allen recruited some of the 108th engineers to France during the world war, and no reason for failure to ask his retirement was given the committee with the departmental estimates.

PLAN $200,000 B. T. WASHINGTON SOCIAL CENTER

BY AL CHASE.

Booker T. Washington's memory is to be perpetuated by colored Chicanians in a $200,000 four story community center at Grand boulevard and 36th to be known as the Booker T. Washington center. This was announced yesterday by the Rev. F. A. McColl, pastor of the St. John Baptist church, 1446 South Wabash, which is back of the project.

Work on the new center, which will occupy a site fronting west 175 feet, with a depth of 125 feet, will start in the spring. Most of the site already has been acquired. The first floor will contain a large assembly hall with a life-size statue of Booker T. Washington in the lobby.

Will Have Dormitory.

On the second floor will be offices for doctors and dentists. A free clinic will be maintained. The third floor will be given over to a gymnasium and on the fourth will be a dormitory. Every phase of social settlement work will be covered, according to Dr. McColl, who, by the way, was born in Marion, Alabama, Washington, coming from Alabama, Dr. McColl organized the St. John Baptist church in 1904. It now has 8,000 members, he states.

Fred Kummer has purchased the fifteen flats at 1400-06 Oliver, from John Roth for $105,000, subject to $45,000, according to Thomas F. Corley of Rutherford & Harding.

F. W. Grappherau reports selling the store and flat building at 220-14 East 36th, to Fred Downey and Marcus

E. Owens to Joseph Barnsberry for $34,-

000, subject to $7,500. The lot is 60x100.

Mr. Price was broker.

Murray Wolbach has placed the entire block of east frontage on upper Michigan, between Ohio and Grand, as trustee, with the Chicago Title and Trust Company. It is said no building project is contemplated at present. The property fronts 200 feet on the boulevard, 70 on Grand and 100 feet on Ohio.

One of Boston's landmarks, the old Parker House, was built in 1856, and equipped throughout with Brass plumbing pipe.

The only repair made in 67 years was the replacement of a short section broken by an employee doing gymnastics upon it.

In recent years, Boston has materially increased its water pressure, without any effect on the Brass piping, testifying to its unbreakable condition.

Brass plumbing pipe cannot rust. Trouble-free service, an un retarded flow of rust-free hot or cold water—that is what Brass pipe means in any plumbing system.

1½ cups flour
1½ teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup Amaizo
cold water

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add Amaizo and mix in very lightly; add just enough water to hold dough together. Roll out half on floured board. Line bottom of pie plate allowing paste to come over edge. Add apples which have been washed, pared and cut into small pieces; sprinkle with sugar and small pieces of butter; flavor with cinnamon or nutmeg. Roll out remainder of pastry and cover pie; fold lower paste over edge of top crust, pressing edges tightly together. Prick top and bake in moderate oven (400°F.) about thirty minutes. Makes 1 large pie.

"I have been asked often for suggestions or advice on musical matters; a course of studies for adults, children, and some method to help an ailing pianist. My desire is to help others, and for this reason I welcome the present opportunity to advise publicly the general adoption of the instrument known as the Duo-Art Piano."

The DUO-ART in the STEINWAY

YOU who buy a Steinway Piano come into the possession of one of the highest forms of man's handicraft. No wonder it is that such masters as Wagner, Liszt, Rubinstein, and Paderewski selected it for their personal use. The tradition which permeates the Steinway Factory, that only the finest instrument shall be produced, finds expression in the unhurried care with which each individual part of the piano is fashioned. So intense is the enthusiasm of the workmen over their task that never once has the eminence of the Steinway been imperiled. The supremacy of the Steinway Piano is so well established that it has become in the piano field the standard of values.

Reviewing these facts, special significance is given to the fact that Steinway & Sons join with the Aeolian Company in producing the Steinway Duo-Art Reproducing Piano which is the highest achievement in pianoforte construction. It encompasses in the single piano an instrument for manual playing, an improved playeraction, and a piano which reproduces the very personality of great pianists who record exclusively for it. Such is the astonishing power of the Duo-Art that it reproduces without flaw or change the actual playing of the great artists. By inserting a music roll into the piano you may hear—to mention a few—tremendous Liszt numbers played by Paderewski or Hofman or the charming music of Percy Grainger as played by the composer.

Duo-Art Pianos are priced from $695 up. Steinway Duo-Art Grands from $3900. Arrangements may be made to purchase on the term plan. Pay only a small sum down and we will deliver the model you like. The balance can be paid in quarterly or monthly installments. Old musical instruments are taken in part exchange.

Margaret Verity is a child, and an idea in her right, she will do all right. Up to the time she had her ordered mother, Mrs. Verity, my first before Margaret, the child should stand the same as a mother and a servant. Margaret's education and manners had been good. Tears a Mistake!
Far Better, Girls,
to Be Indifferent

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What can I do to win him back? I reckon not a single day in the year passes but that question is addressed to me.

"He used to come to see me every week, but now he doesn't come any more," or "He said he would phone me and three weeks have gone by and he has not called." Well, shall I write him and ask what is the matter?" These and countless others tell the story of the man who loses interest or whose affection has been captured by some other girl.

What can she do to win him back? Tears she has wept. Entrances she has made. New frocks she has strained her pocketbook in a desperate attempt to recatch his fancy. And she has gone about with an ache in her heart for months—years even.

Well there is one way—the entrance of another's heart. It is easy enough to give advice providing the mention of the young man's name does not make your heart skip a beat or two. All hearts were not built to be ruled by heads. There'd be much less sweetness and tenderness, forgiveness and faith in the world were people not more susceptible to rule of heart than head. And some were ill that night, giving with the whole 95 per cent of affection and loyalty. When their love is unrequited—only time can do the healing.

Writing notes, manufacturing excuses for phoning the man, lures, wiles, and pretenses that are obvious avail nothing, once indifference has set in.

There are just some disappointments in life one has to face stoically and as heroically as one can muster the courage for. The girls who feel most deeply the loss of a loved companion are least likely to attempt a revival of the old flame once they have sensed its demise.

There are, however, any number of girls whose hearts are not as much hurt as their pride. And they are the ones most willing to commit the folly of casting the rainbow that has vanished from the sky.

There is only one possible chance of挽回ing a man under the circumstances, and that is not to make one single obvious move in his direction. Be indifferent—or as apparently indifferent as you can muster your will to be. The worst mistake a girl can make at this point is the parting of the ways to elope. There is nothing so absolutely disastrous to a man as the clasp of a woman's hand, the sound of her voice, or the lovelight in her eye once the old tender emotion is played out. There is just the ghost of a chance the habit of her company, the comforts with which she surrounded him may recur to him if he sees another man about to usurp them. Blessings do brighten as they take their flight. But that is not a pretty consolation.

Of course, it may be, in some instances, that the tender emotion has not entirely fled. Then bringing up the same scene may be the dying ember. But love that is not mutual is not a happy working basis for married life. And their is no magic in the ceremony, to make a devoted lover out of an indifferent suitor, is there? So wouldn't it be better to accept philosophically the passing out of your life of the man, and give him a chance to begin its recuperative work earlier?

Might As Well.

"Dear Miss Blake: About two years ago I met a nice young man, one year my senior. We kept company for about one year and were happy.

"Brown Eyes." Perhaps, after all, Brown Eyes, it was the only way he could have determined which one he really cared more for. So I would not be hurt so much that I would lose my happiness in revengeful sorrow over the incident. He might have married you, carrying in his heart memories of this girl. Their brief reunion probably has utterly dispelled them, and henceforth you are to be kind and give them my name?

"Struck by Automobile." I will be grateful to you for your kindness to him and me. Mrs. T. G."

"We were suddenly taken ill, and this girl started to visit him. Thinking it was only for old time's sake, I never suspected anything. One day I paid him a visit, and, as usual, this girl was there. He seemed to be sad, so I called him into the next room and asked him what the trouble was. He told me that he was sorry, but that his people wanted him to go with this other girl.

"Now they have parted, and he has asked me to go out with him again. I still forgive him, but I cannot seem to forgive him for being so cruel. I would appreciate your advice.

So I would not be hurt so much that I would lose my happiness in revengeful sorrow over the incident. He might have married you, carrying in his heart memories of this girl. Their brief reunion probably has utterly dispelled them, and henceforth you are to be kind and give them my name?

Society Finds Time to Attend Performance to Aid Civic Theater

Society interspersed its shopping for the benefit of the new Serbian Saint Sava's Home for Orphans and its post-matinee activities by attending a matinee for the benefit of the Chicago Civic Theater association yesterday.

The performance was given by Margaret Anglin and her company at the Playwrights' theater, of which Miss Alice Gerstenberg is founder and chairman. Mrs. Richard B. Barnitz, who was in charge of the sale of seats, was unable to entertain the night before the proceeds would be given.

The Actors' fund benefit matinee at the Auditorium this afternoon at 3 o'clock will also attract many members of society. Mrs. Howard H. Spaulding Jr., Mrs. Frederick McLaughlin, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Joseph Fisch, George F. Porter, Mrs. Francis Nelson, and David P. Thompson will be among those entertaining box parties. A number on the program of great interest will be a fashion review in which the greatest young society women under the chairmanship of Miss Janet Fairbank will take part. The Junior Friends of Art, under the direction of Miss Olga Mann and Miss Elsa Bartholomay, will sell candy and flowers.

The board of directors of the Women's Athletic club announces a lecture by Gen. Henry T. Allen, commander of the American army of occupation in France, who represents the U.S. on the Rhine Island high commission, next Thursday at 1 o'clock. Gen. Allen's subject will be "The European Situation as I Saw It."

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick Jr. of Lake Forest will return tomorrow from a southern trip.

Mrs. Howard H. Spaulding will depart today for New York to sail shortly for Europe, returning indefinitely.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour of 1260 Lake Shore drive are expected to arrive Monday from the south, where they have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy for the last month. Mrs. James Dunne, Mrs. Armour's sister, will arrive in a day or two to visit them for a brief time.

Miss Suette Dewey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey of 242 East Walton place, will arrive next Thursday from Washington accompanied by classmate, Miss Rosalie Evans of New York, to spend the spring vacation with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otto of 1415 Astor street will depart on Monday for California to be gone a month. They will be accompanied by their daughter, Barbara, and son, Harry, now at the University of Pennsylvania, where she is at school.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hettler of 567 Hawthorne place are expected to return tomorrow afternoon from Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Bond of the Webster hotel and their daughter, Mrs. John Baxter of the Virginia hotel, are spending some time in Augustana, Ga.

"The Business Side of Home Making" will be the subject and Mrs. Clara Ingram Judson the speaker for the last of the series of lectures on "The Home" being given under the auspices of the board of managers of the School of Domestic Arts and Science, to take place this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the north branch, 350 Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Mathews Jr. of 219 Lake Shore drive have returned from a six weeks' sojourn in Palm Beach.

Only the Slim May Adopt the Mode of Girdling Hips

by Criminal Lowe

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence)—A great many women after Hamlet's soliloquy. They say, "To be or not to be," and the truth of it is they are perfectly justified in weighing the merits of the tube silhouette. Here is not a mode which suits every figure.

from the "The other day I saw a woman who had turned Jeanne 180 pounds trying on one of those girlish straight line frocks without any belt, and the result would have brought tears to eyes that look on unmoved while Camille coughs out her last words. Obviously, this mode is as unbecoming to her with any extra pounds as it is to the slender.

Equally for the slim is the mode of girdling the hips. This style is done quite a bit this spring, and we are showing today one of its exemplifications. Here the fabric is Lanvin green crépe, lovely in contrast with stripes of gold, red and dark green.

The stripes border the waist extending from side front to side back; they define the V neck line, and they outline over one hip and tying on the other in a wide loop the green crépe.

The last attention paid by the designer is to the belt consisting of rings enclosing each turn. The same frock would be equally charming in powder blue or citron with bands of harmonizing color. In any event, it makes a delightful solution of what to wear at the afternoon bridge or the restaurant tea dance.

KILLEFER TO TRY BOB BARRETT AT SHORTSTOP POST

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
Avalon, Catalina Island, Cal., March 13.—[Special.]—Bob Barrett, best of the Cubs' rookie infielders, now is in line for a shot at the shortstop job which has been considered open as long as Charles Hollocher refuses to report, or until a trade brings a man suitable for the berth.

Barrett is a stranger at the short position, but has shown as brilliantly at second and third, particularly third, and his hitting has been so emphatic, that Manager Killefer feels the necessity of finding a regular place for the youngster if possible. He ordered Barrett to go out to short today and do his stuff.

There is only an outside chance that Barrett will be able to show enough fielding skill to clinch the vacancy, but nothing will be lost by the experiment. He at least is a certainty for the utility infield rôle, and in this connection may have to play short occasionally.

SPOOKY ADAMS IS READY.

Barring the return of Hollocher, the remaking of Vogel as an infielder, or the landing of a real player, via the trade route, the shortstop problem isn't as complicated as it appears. Shorty Adams is standing around waiting patiently for all other possibilities to fade out, and the squatly infielder's work in camp has indicated that he is going to be a vast improvement over last season.

In the practice at short, Adams has been death on ground balls and his former inclination to fight the bad bounces has been pleasantly absent. It is evident the regular work he did last season after Hollocher's departure gave him confidence, and confidence was the one thing he needed. He also has been hitting the ball hard.

Killefer still is sticking to Vogel as a possibility, and the ex-Illini athlete, who has been a good player since he shows a failing for being off balance when fielding a ball, and this often results in a fumble. It's a case of not being able to time his own speed with the speed of the ball. He will have another chance tomorrow, in a game, and Barrett also will be stationed at the position for a few innings.

REGULARS TO PERFORM.

In tomorrow's exhibition against Los Angeles, at Long Beach, the Cubs will appear with all of last year's regulars except at shortstop. The pitcher will be divided between Jacobs, Kaufman, and Dumovich. It will be the first appearance of Jacobs, who is counted upon to perform regularly during the campaign.

The other pitcher, Frings, Miller, Vogel, and Heathcote, was converted into an orchestra last night. Some gents raided the town and came back with a French horn, guitar, a violin, and ukulele.

Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates, did not arrive in camp today as scheduled. However, the possibilities of a trade are as good as ever and the interested parties will probably get together at Los Angeles Saturday.

Playground Mat Title Tourney Opens Tomorrow

Preliminary bouts of the annual city school playground wrestling championship tournament will be held tomorrow. The city has been divided into four districts for the preliminaries, and the finals will be staged on March 22, at a place to yet be selected. The prelims of the north section will be held at the school west, Delano school; southwest, Davis school, and south, Fliske school. There are six weight divisions in the grammar school section and eight weight divisions in the open section.

Crescents and J. P. I. Meet In Indoor Game Sunday

KARR HERE TODAY TO DRILL FOR O'HARA

TTRIBUNE DECISIONS

At Sioux City, Ia.—Eddie Morris beat "Dago" Joe Goss, 10-8; Glenn Milligan and Al Van Bryen drew 10-10.

At Columbus, O.—Jack Malone beat Jake Steen, 10-9.

Johnny Karr, the Cleveland welterweight matched to meet Joe O'Hara at East Chicago on Monday, will arrive in Chicago on Monday morning to work at the Arcade this afternoon and tomorrow. Such was the information given out yesterday by Promoter George Osgro.

O'Hara, who has been substituted for Morrie Schlaifer of Omaha, is working diligently at the Clark street gym. Joe stepped three interesting rounds with Gene Tunney last Wednesday and surprised the gym fans with his clever footwork and boxing. Joe went along with his larger opponent in a pleasant manner.

Ernest Welsh, the South Bend 145 pounder, who meets Jimmy Gory of Elgin, who tackles Jack McCarthy of the west side on the same card, will be in town today to work at Kid Howard's establishment.

Many of the inspected flock owners are having trouble filling their orders among the 100,000 flocks in the state. Farmers who were unable to qualify for inspection under the new plan are willing to pay Billy Sandow, the titleholder's manager, to produce eggs for them. Sandow, with a privilege of 65 per cent of the gross receipts, Sandow asserted he will give his layers that do not measure up to the standard a break fasted on the layer's tag in a stamp of royalty. It will not doubt take several years to get enough inspected flocks to supply the demand. While Osgroff, who has delivered final ultimatum to Billy Sandow, the titleholder's manager, to produce 100,000 flocks in Illinois by April 1, with a privilege of 65 per cent of the gross receipts.

BIRK BEVERAGES ROLL 2,949 FOR FOURTH IN A. B. C.

Birk Brothers team rolled true to form in the first squad of five men in the American Bowling congress tournament last night and stepped into sixth place with a score of 2,828. This marked the end of the last 2,200 class teams among the leaders. Teepfer Brothers, Cincinnati, being shoved from the bottom rung.

But two other teams on the squad smacked out pay division counts, the Snow Bros. of Chicago, who hit 2,826 and the People's Club No. 1, which made 2,794. Next in line stood the Harvesters of Wheaton, with 2,699; Peoples Gas No. 2, with 2,688; Vogels of Chicago, with 2,682, and the Lagoon Hardware, Chicago, with 2,660.

BLOUIN NOT SO GOOD!

Blouin, center of attraction on the late shift, started out with a low count of 140, then went ahead with a rush of 290, his second game and 215 his third. In team, the Brucks, was off color and rolled outside the money with a 2,623 total.

Possibly the alleys were just taking a rest in preparation for the warm reception Jimmy Blouin, the Blue Island star and world's champion bowler, is expected to give them when he rolls his doubles and singles beginning at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. A capacity house greeted the appearance of the Brucks and Blouin, who rolled on the last five man squad.

HESLEY HAS 625 Series.

In touching up the Billiards with 210 came next, the Billiards team with 248, Hesley and Geiser dropped the greatest amount of wood, the former having a series of 625, the latter one of 623.

Three things resulted the afternoon program, one being the 279 high single game of the tourney, set up by Bill Kohl of Kenosha, in his single event, the gaining of second place in the men's doubles, and the winning of the title of fourth in the all events by Skidmore of Madison, with a nine game figure of 1,908.

Fazy Unlucky.

Had Fazy not been unfortunate in losing a good bit in the seventh frame of his last game he would have broken the new record set by Kair a few days ago. Fazy had games of 266, 228, and 364.

To gain his position among the leaders he had to make his efforts showed a 651 in the singles, while he showed 586 and his five man event 641.

The big score of Caisse him little, as he was away to a lively 129 start and took a series of 615.

It was a good day for prize winning all around in both doubles and singles events, more than thirty qualifying with 600 scores in the singles, while 1,200 totals were common in the two man event.

Other Good Scores.

Listed among the top singles of the day were:

Thome, Kenosha, 609; Wooman, Chicago, 603; Golert, Chicago, 603; Clark, Wooster, 602; Miller, Chicago, 639; Elton, Kenosha, 604; Burman-Ewer, Chicago, 634; and Pease, Kenosha, 633.

Doubles scores of class were:

Heitman-Reilly, Chicago, 1,243; Towns-van, Chicago, 1,221; Weller, Milwaukee, 1,214; Schmid-Kohler, Kenosha, 1,211; Wehner-Frank, Kenosha, 1,210; Hayen-Wood, Milwaukee, 1,204; Langdon-Auerbach, Chicago, 1,202; Fazy, Waukegan, 1,200, and Hoffman-Ewer, Madison, 1,200.

SHRIMP

A bad slump featured the hog market yesterday, with closing quotations 10@15c below early selling when considerable business was transacted on a steady to strong basis comoured with Wednesday. Shippers and speculators purchased freely at the start, while packers, owing to depression in the general meat trade, held off and succeeded in lowering the late market.

Hog supplies, including 3,463 over from Wednesday, totaled around 22,000, and at the close of the day about a third of them remained in the pens, some of them held off the market. At the start, however, 2,500 lbs. butchers sold at $7.55, but later, the same class went at $7.40. Day's average price was $3.35 a year ago, and $10.25 two years ago.

Better outlet for beef steers and improved prices strengthened prices, with sales generally up to 25c higher than those of the week's loss on, in between steers, selling at $8.50 to $9.50, was erased, while top 1,000 lb averages at $12.00 stood as high as any time of the year. Bulk of sales ranged at $8.25 to 10.00 for beef steers.

Long yearlings steers featured the trade, where 1,110 lb averages reached $11.75, the highest yearling sale since the middle of January. Total sales, 1,000 pounds or more, 11,000 lbs.

Calves, 250 lbs.

How They Operated

The federal government, to definite information, is to show these unlawful acts:

1—That Brook and Verr
ingenious withdrawal
tated matter from the m able secretly to remove n 000 cases of whisky from warehouse.

2—That in co-operation
than twenty druggists
cago, the whisky was distri sold without leaving trace posal of the stolen booze.

3—That permits for whisky were raised fr
for small amounts to o
great amounts, and that u orders whisky was carted truckloads.

Brook Under Susp

In Chicago, as elsewhere, used as a confidential insid
because of his mastery of his ability to untangle the tape which characterizes office procedure. It was a knowledge, possessed by or even the highest pro claim, that caused Brook to in the first list of suspects.

Then the agents set out test their theories. Their in the announcement yesterday.

Among the first things was that Brook had dashed from California for a h vacation which coincided with days on which
Moor plot was engineered.
